BUSINESS NEWS OF DAY MIXED

Fox Film Ranges Over Irregular Course—U. S.
Steel Sells Higher—Call
Money 4 Per Cent.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The stock market closed irregularly higher today, most of the leading industrials and public utilities mounting upward, while several of the high class rails lost ground. Trading was only moderately easy in volume, the day's sales running below $300,000 shares.

Heavy buying of the Rubbers stocks, based largely on merger rumors, carried Goodyear up more than 9 points to $33, but it eased off 8½ at the close. Goodyear, a new member in the 4½ point U. S. Rubber Co. group. The Eaton interests of Cleveland, though their continental share importation, are reported to be large holders of all three issues.

Business news was mixed. Reports of a sharp increase in crude oil production last week were accompanied by a reduction of one cent a gallon in the tank wagon price of gasoline in New York and in England by the Standard Oil Co. of New York. Iron Age reports of "steel" demand, after exceeding sharply in January, and only holding its own in February, has shown a further slight gain. The average operations for the country at large now stand at 78 per cent of capacity, compared with nearly 77 per cent a week ago.

Acceptance Rate Lower. Call money was relatively easier, today the rate for loans renewing at 4 per cent and holding at that rate throughout the day, and closing at 4½ per cent in the money market. There was only limited supply on hand, indicating that the demand for mid-week reserve bank settlements and for holiday funds had been met. An easier underline also was evident in the time money market with all dates quoted at 4½ to 4¾ per cent.

The Federal Reserve at Boston reported as having reduced its prime rate by 1 per cent on the latest rates of 1½ and 1¼ per cent for 1 and 6 months. The New York Federal Reserve had later announced that it had raised its buying rate on acceptance by one-eighth of a per cent, the figure in line with the market. The new rate of short term bills is 3½ per cent for larger bills 3½ per cent.

Large Trade in Utilities. Public utilities were again turned to in large volume at advancing rates. American Waterworks rose nearly 6 points higher and Standard Gas and Electric, Consolidated Gas, Engineers' Public Service, North American Co., American Power and Light, Columbia Gas and Public Service of New England, all closed 2 to 3 points higher. People's Gas fell 3½ and Stone & Webster 1½.

Steel closed 2 points higher. Rail Shares Down.

Both Pacific Dropped ½ and 4, Canadian Pacific fell 5½ and 1 and Southern Pacific, New Coast Line and Chesapeake Bay showed net declines of 2½ to 3 points.

Western Union closed 4½ points higher. This was a revival of interest and activity of General Securities equipment. The Fox Film broke four points at the opening on rumors of a hitch in the negotiations for a recapitalization plan to avert receivership proceedings, scheduled for a hearing this afternoon, but had turned up its loss by early afternoon.

Stock prices, with other market news, will be found on Pages 9C, 10C and 11C.

DOCTOR, INFECTED FIGHTING PARROT FEVER, DIES OF IT

Baltimore City Bacteriologist Succumbs to Disease
He Investigated—Serum Does Not Save Him.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 11.—Dr. WALTER ROYAL STOKES, director of the Bureau of Bacteriology of the health department, died of pottacosis, or parrot fever, last night at the Mercy Hospital.

He had worked with Dr. Daniel S. Hatfield, director of the Bureau of Communicable Diseases, investigating the disease. Dr. Hatfield for two weeks has been ill with what is thought to be parrot fever. The announcement of Dr. Stokes' illness was made Feb. 8, after he had been ill at his home for some time, presumably with a cold.

Dr. Stokes had studied the parrots supposed to have died of the disease, conducted post-mortems, and tested the blood of persons believed to be ill from it.

The committee's action was regarded in several quarters as a set-back in this phase of the law enforcement program so far as the present session of Congress is concerned.

The House has already passed another measure recommended by the commission and President Hoover—the Williamson bill to transfer the prohibition enforcement unit from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice.

The $15,000,000 appropriation for the Prohibition Bureau was recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee in reporting favorably the annual supply measure for the Treasury and Postoffice Departments.

Four firemen, blown into the river off the dock, were missing. One explosion is missing. They are Louis Gillian, John Bofinger, James C. Farley and John Harvey. There was a report that Harvey had drowned.

Capt. Michael Gibney of Engine Co. No. 4, the first to arrive at the dock, was thrown heavily to the deck by the first explosion. His shoulder was dislocated. Mrs. Josephine Gehre, 50 years old, a widow, was lightly injured in the same way. Karl Sileske, 19, Bremerhaven, Germany, a German who was overcome by smoke while with other members of the crew, attempted to extinguish the fire before the firemen arrived. Lieut. Harry Duryea of the fireboat Willard was cut on the head by flying glass.

The 263 passengers had left the ship before the explosion. Many of them, however, were still on the pier, having their baggage examined by customs men. They were ordered away as the flames spread and the ship was cleared of its crew.

The fire broke out in hold No. 6, aft, in which part of the ship was stored. It quickly spread to hold No. 5, and the explosion followed.

Tug Alongside Damaged.

The Lackawanna Railroad tug Newton, which had drawn alongside the liner as the fire was discovered, was badly damaged by the first explosion. Despite the damage, the tug crew continued to use the fire fighting apparatus with which it is equipped.

The shop docked at 9:10 o'clock. The fire was reported shortly after 11. At 12:32, after the fifth alarm had been turned in, the entire back end of the liner was afame, and all the firemen had left the ship. They continued to pour streams of water on the fire from the pier until the liner sank.

The Muenchen listed heavily to port as it sank, and the flames continued to sweep along the top deck.

North German Lloyd officers estimated the loss at $6,500,000—$4,000,000 for the ship and $2,500,000 for the cargo.

Mr. Hoover played the fish for a half hour before he landed it.

Official forecast for St. Louis and vicinity: Rain and warmer tonight; about 46° tomorrow; mostly fair with mild temperature.

Flames on North German Lloyd Vessel Spread by Terrific Explosions—All Passengers Off.

4 FIREMEN MISSING, 7 PERSONS INJURED

Blasts Shatter Windows Block Away—Hulk Now Rests on Hudson Tube; Traffic Suspended.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The North German Lloyd liner Muenchen burned and sank at its pier in the Hudson River today a short time after it had docked at the end of a voyage from Bremen. No passengers were aboard.

The fire was accompanied by a series of explosions in one of the holds. Firemen pouring water into the hold were thrown off their feet. The blasts shook the whole ship and the pier.

The explosions tore away nearly all the aft railing, smashed the windows, and littered the aft decks with wreckage. Windows in pier No. 41, a block away, were shattered. As one explosion followed another, the ship's plates were ripped apart.

The committee's action was regarded in several quarters as a set-back in this phase of the law enforcement program so far as the present session of Congress is concerned.

Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy attributed the explosions to spontaneous combustion of nitrate of potash, 459 sacks of which were part of the cargo. There also were 40 drums of shellac in the hold.

There were four explosions, each heavier than the one before. After the ship sank, there was a muffled fifth explosion inside the hull.

Four firemen, blown into the river off the dock, were missing. One explosion is missing. They are Louis Gillian, John Bofinger, James C. Farley and John Harvey. There was a report that Harvey had drowned.

America's Proposal for a "Wonder Ship" Is Met by Storm of Criticism in Parley Circles.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright 1930, by the Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Battleships and submarines took the center of the stage at the naval conference today—battleships because of the hostile public reaction to the proposal that the United States be allowed to build a new "wonder ship" and submarines because the whole question of the uses and abuses of underwater craft was canvassed at a public plenary session of the conference.

Nothing that has happened at the conference has aroused such a storm of criticism, as both here and in other countries, as the American battleship building suggestion. The most plausible explanation is that the proposal was a trial balloon to see if public opinion would accept it. If so, the public would be more effectively punctured. All indications today are that the delegation is climbing down from the proposal.

Opened America to Attack.

Even assuming that it was only a gesture for maneuvering purposes, it was a gesture almost unbelievably stupid. The inevitable effect was to open America to attack as secretly militaristic and, for the time being at least, to stiffen France in her insistence upon a large navy.

"It," runs the French argument in effect, "with other nations planning to build, why should we not be called upon to scale down?" A similar reaction was discernible in Japanese quarters.

Probably no irreparable damage has been done. The admirable course of the American delegation in other respects has contributed to building up a structure of good will that should endure through the conference. A good deal of tactful smoothing over will have to be done, however, to repair the consequences of the blunder.

Nearer Agreement—MacDonald.

MacDonald, as usual, was buoyantly optimistic when he met the press after today's plenary session. "We are getting deeper down," he said, "and coming to figures of agreement." He added that the whole procedure of the conference was running on a carefully prearranged plan and suggested to the American journalists that they read the history of Stonewall Jackson's campaign in order to understand what was happening. The Premier was asked what had been the greatest achievement of the conference to date. He replied that it was nothing tangible, but consisted in the fact that the five delegations had come together to settle an "extraordinarily delicate" problem and were now more harmonious than when they started.

All possible arguments for and against the submarine were paraded at the impressive plenary session in the Queen Anne's drawing room of St. James' Palace. Great Britain and the United States reiterated their stand for complete abolition of the submarine. France and Japan opposed abolition, but expressed full willingness to co-operate in an agreement restricting their use against merchant ships.

Italy, whose position had been somewhat obscure, declared through her spokesman, Grandi, that she was now willing to discuss total abolition. She considered that abolition was necessary to the drastic reduction of armaments and an essential factor for the promotion of wider agreements."

France proposed in a resolution that a committee be named to draft an agreement limiting the uses of submarines along the lines of the Root resolutions at the Washington conference. The American delegation asked that this committee consider not only such regulation but also total abolition and limitation of the combat value of submarines.

At Macmillan's insistence, both proposals were referred to a committee of the whole and the session adjourned to meet again.

BORAH AND GLASS JOIN IN FIGHT AGAINST HUGHES

His Confirmation as Chief Justice Appears Certain but Only in Face of Sharp Opposition.

HIS LAW PRACTICE CHIEFLY CRITICISED

"Willing to Take Any Case in Which Sufficient Retainer Was Offered," Virginian Comments.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Opposition to Charles Evans Hughes as Chief Justice of the United States developed in the Senate with surprising rapidity today. While his confirmation this afternoon appeared virtually certain, the indications were that it would be accomplished only after a fight. Among those announcing today that they would vote against confirmation were Senators Borah (Rep.), Idaho, and Glass (Dem., Virginia).

The alleged promiscuity of Hughes in accepting retainers from all sorts of clients, to plead to all sorts of causes, during the last few years, formed the basis of one main objection to him; the other being that he once accepted a lifetime appointment to the Supreme Court, then resigned to run for a political office—the president.

Senator Glass, who served in President Wilson's cabinet, and who probably exercises as much influence as any Democrat in the Senate, said he was "simply shocked at the way Mr. Hughes has been willing to hire himself out to all kinds of clients, in all kinds of cases."

Criticism by Glass.

"It may be that I am unable to understand the ethics of the legal profession," he said, "but it seems to me there should be a limit to what a lawyer of Mr. Hughes' standing would be willing to do for fee. So far as I can see from the record, he had been willing to take cases in which a sufficient retainer was offered."

Borah, who is a lawyer, expressed a similar view.

Senator La Follette (Rep.) Wisconsin, likewise is in the opposition group and Senator Elihu (Rep.) Wisconsin, showed his opposition when he voted against the Hughes nomination in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

There was a number of indications that most of the Western Republicans and Independents will line up against the nominee.

Senator Brookhart, Iowa, a member of the Western Republican Independents, announced he would vote against Hughes and that he might speak.

Bleasie's Personal Word.

Senator Bleasie (Rep.) South Carolina, who blocked the vote of confirmation yesterday until he could receive word from the physicians of William Howard Taft as to his condition, was noncommunicative today. Taft's resignation was submitted a week ago because of his health. Bleasie urged that Taft stay home while on Convalescence. Newspaper men sought to learn today what information he had received from Taft's physicians. He sent back word that he had received some personal word, but that this was his business and the business of the man who gave it to him.

Further, he asserted, if the American delegation is going to play into the hands of Great Britain it would be well for them to pack up their trunks and come home.

He said he would oppose the proposed construction of 11 5-inch gun cruisers as not adapted to American naval needs, but on the contrary, "just what England wants and needs."

WITNESS DODGES LOBBY INQUIRY, CARAWAY SAYS

Charges J. W. Worthington, Head of Tennessee River Improvement Association, AVOIDS TESTIFYING

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Investigation into reports of lobbying activities in connection with Muscle Shoals legislation had hardly begun today before Chairman Caraway of the Senate Lobby Committee charged that J. W. Worthington, of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, was "dodging" the committee.

Caraway added that when the committee was ready to question Worthington "he disappeared." The committee was informed today that Worthington, who is chairman of the Executive Committee of the association, is ill at Tate Springs, Tenn.

The first witness before the lobby committee as it resumed sessions after a break of several days was Earl Cooper, stampmapher for Worthington at $400 a month.

Caraway questioned Cooper about contributions to the organization and about its support of bids for Muscle Shoals by Henry Ford and the American Cyanamid Co. Apparently dissatisfied with Cooper's replies, he then assailed Worthington.

Cooper testified that one of those who had contributed to the improvement association was Henry Parsons of New York, who finances public utility companies.

In addition, he said, Worthington had sold some property for Parsons at Sheffield, Ala., and received a $12,000 "annuity" for this work.

He said he did not know how much Parsons had contributed to the association or which Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican National Committee, is a former president.

Cooper said the association had favored the principles of Henry Ford and the American Cyanamid Co. for Muscle Shoals.

A letter from Worthington to Chester Gray of the American Farm Bureau Federation was read before the committee. It said Worthington was opposed to making money out of Muscle Shoals, although opportunity "had been knocking at my door for 10 years."

Cooper testified that W. G. Waldo, consulting engineer of the association, was promoting the Southwestern Industrial Council, which intended to build the Aurora dam in Kentucky. The present capitalization, he said, was $100,000. Cooper added that he understood the cost of the project would be about $17,000,000 and that Waldo hoped to receive aid from the Continental Illinois Co. He denied that the Insull Corporation was interested in the project.

The company has 17 Fords, Chevrolets and Pontiacs which it rented on rates based on the number of miles traveled and the number of hours used. When the driver ran down a pedestrian, injured another motorist or damaged another car, the company usually was sued. Rather than defend the increasing number of suits, stockholders of the firm met and decided to abandon the business.

The damage suits are unsecured claims, and it appears from the hearing there will be little, if anything, left after payment of secured claims, court costs and attorneys' fees. There are 17 plaintiffs in the damage suits.

Assets total $16,757.55, including the company's equity in its 17 automobiles, $3800; money due on open accounts, $7484.70, and office fixtures, $300.

A. Bick is president of the firm and J. E. Laubach secretary.

U. S. and Britain Would Bar Submarines

as soon as there is work for it to do.

The submarine, of course, in view of the attitudes of France and Japan, will remain a weapon of naval warfare, but some agreement "humanizing" its employment is almost certain to be signed.

The plenary session was devoted wholly to general principles. Nothing was said about figures, which constitute the real heart of the submarine problem before the conference. It was noted also that the French delegation was still working on the question of the size of the submarine's weapons.

"As regards those nations which wish to use submarines for purely defensive purposes," he declared, "quite frankly we feel that those views are mistaken."

Defensive Weapons, France Says.

The French Minister of Marine, Georges Leygues, spoke after Slimson, declaring flatly that the submarine is a defensive weapon.

"The naval powers cannot do without it," he said.

"But the use of the submarine by the marine, he said, "should and can be regulated like that of any other warship."

"He recalled that at the Washington conference France, to be conciliatory, accepted an inferior ratio for capital ships on the express condition that she should keep her entire liberty as concerns defensive ships.

After asserting that France wishes to be willing to discuss the abolition of submarines, he said that his Government believed the discussion would proceed along other lines, and that consequently the French declared:

"They cannot accept the abolition of the submarine but they are ready to incur in an international agreement regulating its use."

Views of Italy and Japan.

Dino Grandi, the Italian Foreign Minister, voiced his country's viewpoint, that to abolish submarines would be to the disadvantage of the smaller countries. But, he declared, Italy does not object to the principle of abolition.

Secretary Stimson, head of the American delegation, also had a conference with MacDonald before the French arrived at the Prime Minister's office in the House of Commons.

American Secretary of State Stimson, commenting on today's action of the Senate, said that he viewed the conference's decision not as a tentative one but as a "definite one" to restrict submarines.

"I want to say," he continued, "that I regard that single incident worth the visit of the American delegation to London. It marks a step forward in our mutual country once went to war about."

Stimson presented the American viewpoint, asking for a limitation of the submarine's use to the Naval Conference. In his speech he said that the essential objection to the submarine "is that it is a weapon particularly susceptible to abuse, that it is susceptible of use against merchant ships in a way that violates alike the laws of war and the dictates of humanity. The use of the submarine revolts the conscience of mankind more than they have been, confined in the past."

During the discussions today, Mr. Atul Chatterjee, delegate from India, J. E. Ralston of Canada, J. E. Fenton of Australia, together with Prof. Timothy Smiddy of the Irish Free State, all supported the British and American points of view urging the abolition of the submarine.

In stating Japan's view, Admiral

Yoshio Kurokawa, who followed Signor Grandi, declared the submarine was a legitimate and necessary weapon of defense.

Japan, he said, is, however, quite willing and desirous of circumscribing the uses of submarines to human and more legitimate channels than they have been, confined in the past.

DECEPTION ISLAND, Antarctica, Feb. 11. (UPI KUF, San Francisco) — After two weeks of silence the steamer William Scoresby, base ship of Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins Antarctic operations, has been heard from.

News that the missing party has been heard from was received at the home radio station here today. "Scoresby heard from 1:00 G. M. T." the message said (1:00 Greenwich time is 7 a.m. St. Louis time.)

Wilkins had not been heard from since Jan. 28.

The messages came from one of the whalers that has been attempting to find the Scoresby and its party since they vanished more than two weeks ago after setting out through a sea of broken ice to find a taking-off place for Wilkins' proposed Ross Sea flight over the Polar cap.

Attempts are being made to establish communication with the Scoresby to learn what difficulty the party may have encountered. It is thought that an accident may have disabled the base ship, or the unusual weather atmospheric conditions may have made it temporarily impossible for the ship to communicate with this base.

It is expected that Wilkins and the three aids who left here with him are still aboard the Scoresby.

The indictment charges that in August, 1927, merchandise was removed at night in automobiles from Kolker's store to a flat at 2828 Bellevue avenue, Maplewood, which had been rented by Samuel and Louis Fox.

Assistant United States Attorney Dyer and Statler, outlining the Government's case, told the jury they would show that Max Kolker with $16,000 in his pocket, in the spring of 1928 purchased $54,000 worth of merchandise on credit, increasing the inventory value of his stock to $70,000, although the bankruptcy schedule listed only $20,000 of assets, half of which represented fixtures.

The company's records, they said, would show that the company sold only $21,000 of the $70,000 worth of merchandise and should have had a stock on hand worth about $10,000.

Over the objection of defense counsel, Dyer read the testimony of a witness for 1927, which showed the $16,000 deficit. Orrville Livingston, assignee for creditors; Clyde W. Wagner, receiver, and L. de Renthal, trustee in bankruptcy, gave perfunctory testimony concerning the failure of the company.

The defendants have denied concealment and are expected to plead that Kolker suffered a $57,000 loss in selling merchandise less cost in an effort to save dwindling business. Concealment of assets carries a maximum penalty of five years in the penitentiary.

The theory of the defense is that when an organism such as a bacterium or virus invades the body, it somehow interferes with the system and produces "anti-bodies" or hostile organisms are formed, which in pouring into the blood stream, attack the invaders. When the "anti-bodies" become numerous enough to overpower the invaders, the patient begins to recover. If these "anti-bodies" have been formed in the blood of one person, they can be transferred to another who has contracted the disease or has exposed to it. Theoretically, these "anti-bodies," when injected into the blood of the newly-diseased person, will perform the same function as when in the system in which they were formed.

Physicians and bacteriologists at the hygienic laboratory are not minimizing the importance of the malady which made its appearance in the city. Cartridges from convalescents has proved beneficial in cases of infantile paralysis, but so far as parrot fever is concerned, the use is entirely theoretical.

Convalescent serums are based on the theory that when an organism such as is responsible for parrot fever invades the body, somewhere in the system, antibodies of "anti-bodies" or hostile organisms are formed, which in pouring into the blood stream, attack the invaders. When the "anti-bodies" become numerous enough to overpower the invaders, the patient begins to recover.

Commenting on the work of the health service, one of the scientists said today:

"It was a terrible thing to have happened. When we first began work with poliomyelitis we had no reason to believe that it was any more dangerous than anything else. But now we know it is about as dangerous as there is."

Dr. George T. Remley, of the city health department, said:

"There is no longer any reason to doubt, it was stated at the hygienic laboratory, that the organism is transferred directly from parrot to human beings. Thus far attempts to transfer it from parrot to other birds, notably pigeons, have been unsuccessful here, although success has been reported in other laboratories.

There are no pears to be good evidence, it was said, that it can be transferred from person to person, although apparently not easily. Just what happens is difficult to determine. It is fairly clear, it was said, that the organism is so hardy it can live outside the blood-stream in the feathers, the mouth and the nose of an infected bird, and thus pass on to any one who comes in contact with it.

3 MEN ON TRIAL FOR HIDING ASSETS IN BANKRUPTCY

Samuel and Max Kolker and Louis Fox, of Defunct Clothing Firm, Appear in Federal Court.

CONCEALMENT OF $28,252 ALLEGED

Government Charges Merchandise Was Removed From Building at Night Before Store Failed.

The trial of Max Kolker, former president of the bankrupt Kolker Bros. Credit Clothing Co., 2122 East Grand avenue; his brother, Samuel Kolker, and Louis Fox, on a charge on concealing assets, continued today in Federal Judge Davis court.

A jury was selected, opening statements were made and the Government's first witness was examined yesterday. The Government will soon prove that the three concealed merchandise worth $28,252 before the firm was placed in bankruptcy in 1927.

The indictment charges that in August, 1927, merchandise was removed at night in automobiles from Kolker's store to a flat at 2828 Bellevue avenue, Maplewood, which had been rented by Samuel and Louis Fox.

Attempts are being made to establish communication with the Scoresby to learn what difficulty the party may have encountered. It is thought that an accident may have disabled the base ship, or the unusual weather atmospheric conditions may have made it temporarily impossible for the ship to communicate with this base.

It is expected that Wilkins and the three aids who left here with him are still aboard the Scoresby.

22 HURT IN RIOT OF UNEMPLOYED AT CLEVELAND

Police Forced to Use Clubs
When 1000 Storm Meeting of Welfare Committee at City Hall.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 11.—Between 1000 and 1200 unemployed men and women stormed City Hall here today in an effort to enter a City Council Welfare Board meeting.

Nearly all the Cleveland police were called out, and were compelled to fight them in order to make them disperse.

Twenty of the rioters and two policemen were injured, and a large number of the men were herded into patrol wagons and sent to jail.

Two hundred policemen used their clubs after a hard fight the crowd was dispersed.

The injured officers are Detective Inspector George J. Matowitz and Captain of Police Oliver Tor-

Tone. The stampede started, and the police began clubbing.

The Council Welfare Committee meeting had been called to consider the unemployment situation in the city. A petition to relieve the unemployment situation had been presented to the Council last week by more than 200 persons, who crowded into the Council chamber for the purpose.

Sixty-four persons have been taken to hospitals, and many more are being treated at home.

HEAD OF D. A. R. DENIES IT
URGED LARGE ARMY AND NAVY
 Says Organization Favors Sufficient Force for Adequate Protection of Country.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Repeating to a statement made by Dr. Valerie H. Parker of New York to the effect that the Daughters of the American Revolution was milltaristic, Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart, president-general of the organization, yesterday said: "The D. A. R. has never voted for nor said that it approved a large army and navy, but has always maintained that it was necessary to have a sufficient force for adequate protection of the country, for riots or disorder, for favorable comparison with other countries that it might demand their respect." Apparently alluding to Dr. Parker, who resigned Sunday, Mrs. Hobart said it was unfortunate that some former members have preferred a so-called world citizenry realm of action and have withdrawn on the pretext that the daughters of the American Revolution were giving too much attention to national affairs."

"Very few, however, have given up in favoring the nation as the best means of serving the world and thereby extending world peace," she added.

STREET CAR REVENUE INCREASES SLIGHTLY

Number of Riders Drops 7 Per Cent Compared to Last Year, However.

Experience of the Public Service Co. in the last few weeks indicates that the latest fare increase in producing enough revenue to offset the loss in riders.

The report for the week of Jan. 27 to Feb. 2 shows 278,134 fewer fares collected than in the corresponding week a year ago. A decrease of 7.75 per cent, but revenue was slightly more than in the earlier period.

In a week reported the company's cars and buses collected 4,502,247 fares compared with 4,350,251 in the corresponding week of 1929, producing a total revenue of $234,183.27 compared with $234,014.74 a year ago. Fares were 19.25 cents higher than in the corresponding week, but revenue was $21,250 less, a difference due to fluctuation in methods of paying fares.

The following table shows revenue and fares collected by weeks this year compared with the corresponding weeks of last year:

REVENUE.	Year Ago.
Dec. 30 . . . . .
Jan. 5 . . . . .	$346,324.27
Jan. 6-12 . . . . .	346,244.79
Jan. 13-19 . . . . .	346,307.72
Jan. 20-26 . . . . .	345,988.47
Jan. 27 . . . . .	344,383.27
Feb. 3 . . . . .	344,914.74

FARES COLLECTED.	Year Ago.
Dec. 30-Jan. 5 . . . . .	4,024,544
Jan. 6-12 . . . . .	4,183,617
Jan. 13-19 . . . . .	4,209,216
Jan. 20-26 . . . . .	4,482,966
Jan. 27-Feb. 3 . . . . .	4,502,247

The increase in price of weekly communion tickets on Dec. 30 from 50 cents to $1 for 12 rides has resulted in an increase in the proportion of 10-cent fares from approximately 40 to 45 per cent of the total, which in part accounts for the better revenue showing. Children's fares also were increased from 2 to 5 cents.

Weather Reduces Air Mail Traffic.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Unfavorable flying conditions were held responsible by the Post Office Department for a decrease of 113,376 pounds of mail carried by airplane during January, 1930, as compared with December 1929. The total poundage for January was 585,922.

EXHIBIT OF PROGRESS IN TRANSPORTATION

Antique Vehicles Shown on Twelfth Blvd. as Part of Air Exposition.

An exhibit of antique horse-drawn vehicles, a miniature freight train and a modern airplane are on display in Twelfth Boulevard, between Olive and Locust streets, in connection with the International Aircraft Exposition, which opens at The Arena next Saturday night. The equipment will be used in a "Pageant of Transportation," to be presented during the exposition.

The group includes a victoria, a buck, runabout and a cutter of the period when sleigh bells were to be heard in Forest Park on snowy mornings. The train, which has a locomotive equipped with a tractor engine, includes one of each type of modern freight cars. The plane is a two-seater sport model.

DORAN TO ATTACK SALE OF SUPPLIES TO MOONSHINERS

In Proceeding Against Corn Sugar and Yeast Companies, Seeks Test in Court.

By the Associated Press.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 11.—Prohibition Commissioner James A. Doran at a conference with district enforcement officers today said that wholesale indictments of firms "contributing to prohibition law violations" would be continued with the hope of obtaining an interpretation of the scope of the eighteenth amendment.

The move of the Government, Dr. Doran said, was to be viewed as first attempts to block the "highways" who, either consciously or unconsciously, contributed to prohibition law violations.

"If we can show," Dr. Doran said, "that individuals and firms knowingly supplied law violators with materials to manufacture illicit liquors and beverages, the courts will be called upon to give an exact interpretation as to the definite scope of the prohibition laws."

Doran said he was of the opinion that the interpretation of the law might be extended to brand as violators firms supplying any material used in liquor manufacture or disposal. Such companies, he indicated, would include firms selling bottles, caps, still supplies and extracts.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—United States District Attorney Johnson announced that speedy trials will be sought for the 156 persons charged in the case of the 237 indictments on charges of conspiring to violate the prohibition act by diversion of specially denatured alcohol to bootleg channels. Bench warrants for the arrest of those indicted were issued today.

The indictment set forth 237 overt acts in violation of the dry act, charging illegal diversion of more than 1,000,000 gallons of Government alcohol during the last six months.

Other cities involved in the ramifications of the accused alcohol syndicate, said to be the most extensively operated conspiracy uncovered by the Government, are Cleveland, St. Louis, Philadelphia, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Detroit, North Bergen and Newark, N. J.

All the firms indicted either are now or once were in business requiring the use of alcohol in the manufacture of toilet articles, perfumes, medicines and similar products to which the Government gave permits for withdrawing the alcohol.

It is charged that much of the alcohol was diverted and redistilled for beverage purposes, and that several of the firms operated merely as a blind for "cover houses" for the syndicate.

Five St. Louisans and one concern there, the Standard Laboratories, were charged in the indictment. The five individuals are: Arthur G. Mueth, president and treasurer of the Standard Laboratories; M. H. Mueller, Hay Pohnack, David F. Reis, Louis F. Reis.

Four assistant United States attorneys were assigned to the task of instituting removal proceedings against the persons named in the conspiracy who reside outside the state. Henry L. Balsham, Daniel Anderson and Albert Boworth will go to Cleveland, St. Louis and other cities where those indicted live.

Deputy U. S. Game Warden Says He Sold Concern Two Years Ago

David F. Reis, 5260 Waterman Avenue, listed in the city directory as president of Standard Laboratories, Inc., is a deputy United States Game Warden here. He said he organized the company in 1922 to manufacture a fluid for cigar lighters, using alcohol under Government regulations. About two years ago, he said, he sold the company to interests which later went out of business.

Reis said he was now in the real estate business at 503 Elm street, quarters formerly occupied by the laboratories which he holds under lease from E. H. Reis, he said. His brother and a minority stockholder in the company, and Ray Pohnack, a former employee with no interest in the business. Arthur G. Mueth and M. H. Mueller are not listed in the city or telephone directories.

L. C. G. Permit to Northwestern

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Despite protests from communities interested in the matter, Commerce Commission today gave the Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. permission to abandon 37 miles of its railroad running from Point Reyes to Monte Rio, both in California. The line in question is a narrow gauge and the Northwestern Pacific is owned by the Southern Pacific Co.

COAL FIRM OFFICE IS HELD UP; $1800 TAKEN FROM SAFE

John Gill, Proprietor, and Two Employees of Company at 620 South Taylor Forced Into Rear Room.

Fourteen holdups were committed in St. Louis last night following the issuance of orders by Acting Chief of Police Glasco to police to be on the alert for transient gunmen, robbers and other undesirable, who are reported to be leaving Chicago as a result of the police campaign against criminals there.

Chief Glasco's order, which will be read at three consecutive roll calls, reads:

"In view of the drive by police at Chicago against criminals, it is possible some of the undesirables may seek refuge in St. Louis. A warning is timely that all officers be active and on the alert for gunmen, racketeers, and other criminals, who may come to St. Louis. All such must be given to understand that St. Louis police will follow them and that their stopping place here will be the holdover."

The principal robbery of the evening was at the Gill Bros. Coal Co. office, 620 South Taylor avenue, where two armed men obtained $1800 after holding up John Gill, the proprietor, and two employees.

The robbers entered the office by a side door with drawn revolvers and commanded Gill to give up cash register books and Frank and John Bengham, 4507 Lacide avenue, employees, to hold up their hands and enter a rear room. One robber guarded the three men while his companion took the money from a safe, which was open. The robbers then ran from the office. The loss was partly insured, Gill told police.

Baker Fired at Robbers.

Emil Rheinheimer, proprietor of a bakery at 3260 Union boulevard, fired three shots at two robbers who escaped with $175 after forcing their way into Rheinheimer's bakery about 10:30 p.m.

Annoying a summons to the door, Rheinheimer was met by two armed men, who forced him to obtain a box containing the money from his bedroom. When Rheinheimer made a motion as if to pick up a revolver lying near the money box one robber threatened to kill him but failed to take the weapon.

Three armed men entered the Lincoln sedan of Harry J. Johnson, vice-president of the Johnson Bros. Shoe Co., which was parked in front of Hotel Coronado at 8 p.m., and forced William Thomas, Negro chauffeur, who was alone in the machine, to drive to Forest Park. The men put Thomas out of the car near the River des Peres bridge, giving him a dime for bus fare to the hotel, and drove away.

Theater Cashier Robbed.

Miss Marian Collins, cashier, was held up in the lobby of the Robin Theater, 5479 Robin avenue, at 8:15 p.m. by two men, who took $35 and escaped in an automobile. One robber was masked.

Five women were held up during the early part of the night by two men in an automobile, thought by police to be the same in each instance. The holdups were reported as follows: Mrs. Mable Rutledge, 5351 Delmar boulevard, held up in front of 5348 Brightwood avenue, at 5 p.m., and robbed of her purse containing $11; Mrs. Rose Hand, 5560 Pershing avenue, at Belt and Waterman avenues, at 8 p.m.; Mrs. Mary Monzoni, 111 North Euclid avenue, on Euclid, near Maple, at 8:10 o'clock, purse containing a small amount of change; Mrs. Jean Hyda, 4912 Fountain avenue, at Fountain and Euclid avenues, at 8:45 o'clock, 60 cents and a ring; and Mrs. Barney Grossberg, 6629 Waterman avenue, near her home at 9 o'clock, $6. Mrs. Monzoni reported one of the robbers was blind.

Slugged; Had Only $2.

Miro Sadio, 220 Bates street, was struck on the head with a revolver by a Negro robber, who became angry because Sadio had but $2 in his pockets when the Negro forced him into an alley near Eighth and Chouteau avenues at 7:30 p.m. Sadio is at City Hospital suffering from six cuts of the scalp.

Fires at Men Who Tried to Force Way Into His Auto.

W. J. Miller, filling station proprietor, was entering his automobile in front of his home at 616 North Throckmorton street, East St. Louis, at 7:30 o'clock last night, when two men attempted to force their way into the car. Mr. Miller drew a revolver. They fled. He shot at them, but they escaped.

A Negro burglar was captured by police in the grocery of Michael Bresnahan, 500 Trendley avenue, East St. Louis. He gave his name as Julius Jackson.

BOARD O'K'S BODY FOR STABILIZATION OF WHEAT MARKET

Farm Commission Gives Formal Approval to the Corporation Headed by W. G. Kellogg.

$10,000,000 FOR INITIAL OPERATIONS

Grain Corporation Likely to Be Used as Marketing Agent—Product in Storage Not Involved.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The Federal Farm Board today formally approved the Grain Stabilization Corporation, which was incorporated yesterday at Dover, Del.

The approval was a matter of routine since the Board previously had announced it would direct the corporation in its efforts to stabilize the wheat market and would provide a first credit of $10,000,000 for the purpose.

W. G. Kellogg, general manager of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, is president of the stabilization corporation, which will set up headquarters in Chicago. Board members have stated that it would function through the machinery of the grain corporation.

The corporation was organized under the Capper-Voelker Grain Cooperative which are members or intend to become members of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation. The members waived all rights or claims to any profits which may accrue from stabilization operations, to the end that all profits or losses may fall upon the $500,000 revolving fund provided in the agricultural marketing act.

A Non-Stock Concern.
The stabilization corporation is a non-stock corporation created on July 1 on Government funds which is to be repaid in event of a profit or checked against the revolving fund in event of a deficit.

It was generally expected that the grain corporation, which already has acquired elevator space and some 2,000,000 bushels of grain, would be asked to act as managing agent for the stabilization corporation. The new corporation is likely to take over grain ready held by the grain corporation, it was said, although it could have authority to buy anywhere and in whatever quantities saw fit. It was expected to offer prices slightly in advance of those guaranteed set by the grain corporation, which offered $1.15 at Chicago for No. 1 hard winter wheat and slightly varying prices at other terminal markets.

Stored Wheat Not Involved.
Chairman Leggett last night said there already is stored grain and signed by contract for future delivery would not be involved in the new operations. Only country grain will be bought.

In a previous description of stabilization operations, the chairman said the object probably would be to purchase and remove surplus visible supply a sufficient amount to ease the pressure on the market in the hope of selling to advantage when the demand strengthened.

The fact that the board announced the $10,000,000 loan as initial credit was interpreted in the grain circles to mean that further advances would be made if necessary.

Board Member Denounces Grain Speculators.

By the Associated Press.
SPokane, Wash., Feb. 11.—John R. McKeivie, wheat member of the Federal Farm Board, former Governor of Nebraska, denounced grain speculators, the Chicago Board of Trade and the Kansas City Board of Trade as enemies working against the farmer, in an address here yesterday.

Speaking before a mass meeting of farmers, McKeivie first condemned what he described as "speculation of news by speculative persons." This news, he declared, was for the purpose of information for the wheat grower, but it led to cause prices to move in direction desired by speculators.

The law of supply and demand, he asserted, temporarily aside by these practices. The Farmers' Board feels, he said, with a situation prevailing thereby on the Chicago Board of Trade as much grain is traded in course of a week as is handled during the entire crop of the country. Harmful effects are apparent.

In the present general depression the price of wheat, McKeivie argued, "is due to anterior pur-

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The text of the address of United States Secretary of State Stimson today before the plenary session of the five-power naval conference follows:

"At the Washington conference in 1922, the American delegation accepted the view of their naval advisers that the United States needed a large submarine force. They were, therefore, opposed at that time to its abolition. Such a stand was based on purely naval strategy without receiving humanitarian considerations because the conference agreed that the submarine should not be used against commerce, except under the same obligations relative to the safety of passengers and crew which apply to all naval craft."

"I quite realize that our views on the subject are not shared by all our colleagues. However, we all recognize that solution of our problems can be found only through a frank and friendly discussion. In setting forth the views of the American delegation, I want to make it clear that I am the first to recognize the sincerity of those who disagree with us."

"The essential objection to the submarine is that it is a weapon particularly susceptible to abuse, that it is susceptible of use against civilian shipping in a way that violates the laws of war and the dictates of humanity."

"My remarks will be addressed entirely to the question on our agenda and, in no sense, constitute a criticism of any of our colleagues or of their attitude on this subject. I am, therefore, confident they will not take amiss anything I am about to say. Years of reflection have tended to crystallize the conviction throughout the world that submarine use of the kind that undermines the principles of the Briand-Kellogg pact, would be a contradiction of the purposes for which we have met."

"I am not speaking of theory. I am speaking of historical fact, and a fact which human experience shows is likely to be repeated."

The approval was a matter of routine since the Board previously announced it would direct the corporation in its efforts to stabilize the wheat market and would provide a first credit of $10,000,000 for the purpose.

W. G. Kellogg, general manager of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, president of the Stabilization Corporation, which will set up headquarters in Chicago, Board members have stated that it would function through the machinery of the grain corporations.

The corporation was organized by Capper-Volstead Grain Cooperatives which are members or intend to become members of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation. The members retain all rights or claim to any profits which may accrue from stabilization operations to the end that all profits or losses may fall upon the $500,000,000 revolving fund provided in the agricultural marketing act.

Stated Arguments Carefully.

"These considerations convince us that technical arguments should be set aside in order that the submarine may henceforth be abolished. We have come to the conclusion that our problem is whether in the lifetime of our experience it seems clear that in any future war those who employ the submarine will be under strong temptation, perhaps irresistible temptation, to use it in the way that is most effective for immediate purposes regardless of the principles of the law of war.

What Problem Is.

"That we as a nation are being involved in this is not longer any doubt," McFadden asserted. "It is clearly indicated that the American leaders of this institution are going to be the 'House of Morgan.'

"Should we not awaken to the fact that we are being led by a group of clever internationalists?"

"After reviewing the preliminary steps toward organization of a great international financial agency, McFadden said the heads of the central banks of European countries came to this country and 'conferred, in private, with the Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York for about two weeks' in 1927.

"He said that the Fascist party sought to give the encyclical its full value and fullness of spiritual essence, avoiding doubtful interpretations productive of artificial discord."

U. S. Being Involved.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—A formal order dismissing Frank Flynn, prohibition agent from the Government service was signed yesterday by Assistant Secretary of Labor.

Flynn, who admitted he was the man who furnished Senators Borah and Wheeler with information upon which they based an attack upon Prohibition Administrator Herbert of Montana, was formally dismissed for insubordination.

Flynn had been transferred to the Baltimore office of the prohibition bureau from Washington before he went to the departmental office, and failed to report to the day designated.

His failure to report was the act cited as the insubordination.

Says Board Saved the Day.

"When Wall Street stock prices collapsed last fall," the Farm Board member said, "it meant no more than in the country, nor less, but wheat prices continued to toboggan in a disastrous manner. A sympathetic decline and a certain element would have forced down the price to $1 a bushel. The law of supply and demand was set aside, and the agricultural industry was called upon to suffer. But the Federal Farm Board stepped in and offered loans on grain to the full value of the commodity, to offset the falling prices, and thus avoided the calamity of holding his grain."

McKeeve said the Grain Board was establishing sources of news information in every foreign country in the world to keep the growers supplied with accurate and honest information.

Russian wheat exports, he said, "are but a drop in the world market," yet reports concerning the movement of the commodity in that country are being spread to the entire world.

He declared that bringing wheat into terminal market places would pave the way for ending speculation.

Russian Commodity Commodity.

MOSCOW, Feb. 11.—Señor Eva Martinez de Leon, Mexican graduate nurse of Los Angeles, Cal., was sentenced yesterday to 15 years imprisonment for killing Dr. Aguirre of Mexico City in November. She shot him in the office after what was alleged to be a lover's quarrel.

Judge Westhusen set aside an order of the commission denying an application made by the City of St. Louis to terminate the extra charge unreasonably and discriminatory, since it is not made for dials on individual instruments nor in private branch exchanges. The commission overruled the city's complaint. The city probably will appeal.

Judge Westhusen set aside an order of the commission denying an application of the Missouri Pacific railroad company for authority to terminate two passenger trains between Pleasant Hill, Mo., and Joplin, Mo., and to substitute motor bus service, and remanded the case to the commission for further action. The commission will appeal the case to the Supreme Court.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of any stripe, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public power, always look sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be dramatically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Would Substitute Buses for Street Cars
Between 10 P. M. and 6 A. M.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I READ the editorials in the Post-Dispatch religiously and find them very enlightening. They always hit the point and have in mind the welfare and comfort of the public, the city of St. Louis and the country at large as well.

Not long ago you discussed the subject that unnecessary and unavoidable noises should be stopped as they get on the nerves of the people, breaks their health and lessens their efficiency.

It has come to my mind that we have an opportunity to stop one of the most nerve-wrecking noises, which is the noise made by street cars during the night.

You can hear a street car coming for about four or five blocks, and you can then hear it until it is four or five blocks away. It seems that a great many of the cars have flat wheels, or that the springs on the cars are worn out, but that something that I could not tell all the street cars from about 10 to 11 at night until 6 in the morning?

The number of persons that is carried on street cars during this automobile age is very small, and, in fact, I think that it could be done with a great saving to the street car company.

Instead of running street cars the company could run busses with rubber tires. The paper stated the other day that the St. Louis Public Service Bus has purchased the People's Motor Bus Co. which would give it an opportunity to use busses which they use during the daytime at night also, by simply using another chauffeur.

Senator Hawes' Defection.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I T USE to be said with truth that the Democratic party stood for free trade and the common people. You could count on the Republican party for big business, high tariff, huge alms and slack! Here we have reports that Senator Hawes has taken a stand with Senator Patterson for high tariff and high-priced utilities and other things the poor people are groaning under. Now let the Post-Dispatch give Brother Hawes what's coming to him and that's aplenty.

H. C. TURNER.

Racketeers and the Peace Party.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AFTER reading in a recent issue of the Post-Dispatch an account of how a soldier who fought for our country in the World War, engaged in the dying and cleaning business in St. Louis, was compelled to pay tribute to foreign racketeers and freebooters, and finally was forced to abandon his business because of the unreasonable demands of the extortions, I immediately mailed a marked copy of your paper to Gen. Dawes, our representative in London.

I suggested to him that the Americans representing this country at the peace conference must find themselves in a rather inglorious position, when asking the great powers of the earth to end war, while our American cities are steeped in bloodshed, rapine and murder of hourly occurrence, the great mass of American citizens without adequate or any protection in their own country, politicians at Washington and elsewhere currying favor with the basest and most vile criminals, a weak and vacillating Government making no effort to protect citizens. The government could do down immigration from countries which have at all times sent us honest, industrious and law-abiding immigrants, to wit: Germany, Norway, Sweden and Denmark, and raises the quota from countries whence come most of the force and motive power back of the deplorable and scandalous lawlessness to which the honest people of this country must submit or else.

I suggest that the peace commission now in session in London demand that the foreign army of occupation be withdrawn from the United States immediately, and with that as a start let the commissioners lend aid and comfort to the rest of the world in an effort to eliminate war. But first give Americans protection of life and property in their own country. JOHN McCUMBER.

Too Much Sex Literature.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WILL you please pass the word along to our novelist story writers and esteemed publishers, in just a kindly, tactful way, you know, for, after all, we do not want to appear ungrateful, but we are all getting so tired picking at the old carcass of our one-time place de resistance, a once-time thrilling subject for a novel, a short story, or just a friendly little chat.

We admit that no skillful housewife making over the Sunday roast into a Monday dinner could outdo some of our writers in their attempts to give us something tasty, but always we detect the flavor of that old Sunday roast. We have it served up to us in goulash and hash, not mentioning the score or more of interesting little mystery dishes, but always we detect the flavor of that old leg o'mutton that Rebecca West took out of the oven and placed before us in such a spicy morsel, away back in the early 50's. GIVE US A NEW ONE.

WAR'S STAGGERING COST.

War is costing England, Philip Snowden says:
$5,000,000 a day.
300,000 an hour.
3000 a minute.

We can all understand that language. Usually the cost of war is strung out in interminable figures that leave most of us cold. We can't think in billions. But when we are told that war eats up $3000 every 60 seconds we do "get it." Mr. Snowden is an economist who can talk to the man in the street.

Another Englishman, Sir Philip Gibbs, has been discussing this same subject in its social, political and economic aspects in the Saturday Evening Post. He, too, has the gift of lucid speech; not quite the polemicist that Snowden is, but an interesting and convincing pamphleteer. Gibbs thus describes the Englishman's plight: "For four months every year a moderately successful man has to sit down to work not for himself or his family but for the national exchequer." In other words, the average well-to-do citizen of England hands over a third of his earnings, in the form of taxes, to war.

What about ourselves? From April 6, 1917, to Nov. 11, 1918, we spent money as money was never spent before. When it was all over we found that our national debt was $26,000,000,000. The amiable Warren G. Harding in the happy days at Marion following the election remarked that "Government, after all, is a very simple thing." He soon realized his error. The ruinous cost of war quickly impressed itself upon him. And the Washington conference—the first successful effort in history in armament reduction—is Harding's monument.

The expression twenty-six billions is too overpowering for comprehension. It just does not "click." Mr. Hoover was more effective when, striving to create a favorable public sentiment for the conference now in session in London, he informed us that our Government was spending 72 cents of every dollar of its revenue on account of war.

But Snowden's $3000 a minute is the blue-ribbon phrase. It rallies the common sense of mankind behind the statesmen London. Economic necessity is turning thumbs down on war.

ON THE CHICAGO FRONT.

Continuous war on the Chicago crime front has brought the usual culmination. A body of citizens, headed by the president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, announces it will employ its own guards, confer police powers on them, and make war on the gangsters.

Immediately following the announcement of the committee the Chicago police started a campaign against lawlessness. In the first 24 hours the police arrested 917 persons, 271 of whom had criminal records. Chicago, it is reported, has assumed a new peace and quiet, gunmen are absent from their haunts, holdups are not the order of the night. The police do not say that the citizens' committee announcement is responsible for their new offensive. For that matter the cause of the police action is not of first importance. The importance of the action is in its result. That result shows that crime, even in America's most crime-ridden community, can be curtailed once the constabulary is spurred into vigorous action.

PRESERVING POTOMAC FALLS.

No European city has so noble a cataract as the Great Falls of the Potomac—a magnificent piece of scenery which you, of course, always pre-service.

When Lord Bryce wrote that tribute he did not foresee the wide sweep of the power interests' ambitions. Where the citizens of Washington and the tourist saw an impressive rush of water through a narrow canyon, flanked by palisades more than 100 feet high, with unusual scenery and haunts of wild life close at hand, the engineer visualized two huge dams and a series of reservoirs as the source of power for industrial use. Plans were in the making of despoliating the Potomac Valley of a large part of the charm which inspired George Washington in choosing the site for the nation's capital.

Representative Cramton of Michigan now has succeeded in getting passage of his bill to preserve these scenic assets as part of the ambitious plan for beautifying Washington and its environs. The House has voted $7,000,000 for acquiring the land as a park, to be part of the proposed memorial highway to Mount Vernon. This outlay is small compared with the $300,000,000 being spent for man-made beauty in the development of Washington. The measure places in the hands of Congress the matter of power grants for this section of the valley. With prospect of favorable action in the Senate, the battle is considered more than half won, and conservationists over the regime are rejoicing.

"Deliberate conversion of our national capital into a factory town," one writer on conservation termed the power scheme. In addition, there were plans for stone quarries which would have defaced the palisades, for a private toll bridge and—immortal shade of George Washington!—for a slaughter house on the banks of the Potomac. The House has acted wisely in overriding commercialism to preserve for the American people a historic shrine and a scenic center of the first rank.

Senator Borah once aspired to go on the stage. Even off the stage he's entertaining.

A VERSATILE VEGETABLE.

The chayote, a garden novelty from Mexico which is a whole vegetable dinner, and more, in itself, has just been introduced into this country. Soon one may start dinner by stimulating the palate with that delicate hors d'oeuvre, (1) chayote pickles. Then will appear (2) the fruit of the plant, which much resembles squash, if one likes squash, with the decided advantage of having only one seed. If one can't bear squash, it is well to remember that the Mexican poets attribute to the plump chayote the various flavors of roasted oysters, sweet potatoes and chestnuts. A side dish will be (3) the chayote root, which resembles the yam and is said to be delicious.

Next come (4) the tender young chayote shoots, which the gourmet can't tell from asparagus. Dessert will be (5) succulent chayote pudding and (6) plump chayote tarts. For sweets one may have (8) chayote honey, which the Mexican bees gather avidly. All may be topped off with a sparkling glass of (9) chayote wine, which is potent but headacheless.

After dinner the merry company will sit under the cooling shade of a pergola clad with (10) the chayote's luxuriant vine, and amuse itself for a happy hour in weaving fancy baskets and women's hair, as the Mexicans do, from (11) dried pieces of the same vine. The butler will convey the remnants of the dinner and the weaving to the barn lot, where the cattle will fall upon them gleefully, for the chayote also yields (12) a nutritious stock food.

We welcome the versatile chayote to our shores.

INJUSTICE IS THE WORD.

The St. Louis Court of Appeals has made a ruling in the case of a claim under the workmen's compensation law which the court frankly recognized as an injustice. It is an injustice.

As a result of the ruling the Missouri Federation of Labor will undertake at the next session of the Legislature to have this section of the law amended. It should be amended.

The claim originated in the death of a Western Union messenger boy, Angelo Triola, whose wage was $15.34 a week, which, it was shown, was contributed to the support of the family. The law provides a death benefit for total dependents of two-thirds of the wages of the deceased for a period of 300 weeks. On that basis of calculation the award in this instance was $3048. This amount was allowed by the commission and also by the Circuit Court. The Court of Appeals reduced the judgment to $786.33, under a section of law which reads:

If there be partial dependents, and no total dependents, a part of the death benefit herein provided in the case of total dependents, determined by the proportion of his contributions to all partial dependents by the employee at the time of his injury, shall be paid by the employer to each of such dependents proportionately.

It developed in the trial that the boy's father earned $22.80 a week and a brother $21, making the total weekly family income $59.04. In the Court's construction of the section quoted there were no total dependents, and the legal award, therefore, was not two-thirds of the boy's earnings for 300 weeks but two-thirds of his one-fourth quota of the family income.

So instead of receiving $16.15 a week—two-thirds of the boy's wage—the Triola family will receive $2.62 a week, which is two-thirds of one-fourth of the family income.

The injustices of the award is emphasized by the fact that there are 10 members of the Triola family. Further, if the family earnings had been $150 a week—a modest enough income, in all conscience, for a family of 10—the boy's wage would have been not one-fourth, but one-tenth of that total, and the award under the law would have been $44, or $4.8 a week.

The point of injustice acknowledged by the Court of Appeals does not have to be labored. The fair intent of the compensation act has in this instance been painlessly destroyed by a clumsy written section of the law, to the letter of which the Court of Appeals has scrupulously adhered.

FISK'S HENNESSY HOUND.

A hound at Fisk, Mo., known for his inefficiency in scaring up rabbits, recently has developed into something of a canine prodigy by becoming highly agitated before a brush pile and turning up 40 bottles of home brew. The owner now expects the prohibition authorities to add his previously unappreciated pet to its staff of snout hounds. The animal itself might prefer the Coast Guard, where he could stand duty in the dog watches and sniff the seas for bottled goods. In the customs service he would be useful for greeting Congressmen at the gangplank and guarding them against those embarrassing mix-ups in baggage.

This animal's accomplishments should not be allowed to die with him, and if the dog fanciers are awake to their opportunity, we will soon have a pedigreed line of Hennessy hounds. The animal itself is being much more attention to the great men of the time whom Elizabeth met occasionally. These are mentioned in passing, but they remain merely names. Even Robert Browning seems hardly to have been realized in the round.

Perhaps, aside from its romantic appeal, the chief value of the book lies in the emphasis that it places upon the ridiculous misnomers of the critics, the dimness in appraising the relative merits of the wedded poets. It seems almost incomprehensible now that not only could Elizabeth be regarded as the greatest poet for many years, but that "Aurora Leigh" could be described even by John Ruskin as "the greatest poem in the English language, unsurpassed by anything but Shakespeare—not surpassed by Shakespeare's Sonnets, and therefore the greatest of all poems."

Various other distinguished critics gabbled similar nonsense. If Robert himself knew better, he seems never to have said so; but certainly Elizabeth knew better, and she

Why America Gets Rich

Growth of wealth and income making U. S. world's richest nation is one of most striking modern phenomena; development begun with European capital, but balance now is reversed; America entered markets abandoned by combatants in war; efficient industrial organization a factor; advantage in larger output per worker.

Lucien Laurat in Le Progrès Civique (Paris); Translated for Living Age.

IN SPITE OF THE CATASTROPHE in Wall street the United States remains, as it has been for a long time, the richest country in the world. The growth of America's wealth and its increased national income constitute one of the most striking phenomena of modern times, and though his manifestation is commonly associated with the war, the Americans were actually growing rich faster than we Europeans were even before we had to pay out costs of reconnection. Yet at the time Europe was America's annual income rose from $7,400,000,000 in 1910 to $12,000,000,000 in 1920, $13,000,000,000 in 1920, $20,500,000,000 in 1920, $27,400,000,000 in 1920, and $30,000,000,000 in 1928. These figures, recently announced by Julius H. Barnes at the meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce at Amsterdam, are useful if one bears in mind the fluctuations of the dollar during the last 50 years.

The national income increased 92 percent between 1910 and 1920. It increased 7.5 cent between 1920 and 1928, 17 percent between 1920 and 1930, and 7.5 per cent between 1930 and 1932. Income per capita increased at a rate of 52 per cent between 1920 and 1930, at a rate of 27 per cent between 1920 and 1930, at a rate of 13 per cent from 1920 to 1930, at a rate of 15 per cent from 1910 to 1920, and at a rate of 20 per cent between 1920 and 1928.

The entire picture represents a gradual and rapid increase, a relative and absolute. Between the two periods of increased growth a cessation occurred, but it was not due to the war. It had existed since 1920 and the war merely accentuated a tendency that already existed. We are therefore led to a somewhat unexpected conclusion: it was not the war that enriched the United States! This result may seem stupefying, but let me remember that the national wealth of America, $30,000,000,000, when the war broke out, increased to $32,000,000,000, but that the same represented in purchasing power increased to $30,000,000,000 pre-war dollars. Furthermore, the output of many American industries is much greater today than the output of the country to rise less rapidly.

Then came the war, bringing perhaps not many immediate advantages but preparing the future. In the four corners of the earth it opened to American business the markets that the war prevented from being able to develop. At the same time the decrease in American immigration deprived the American economic structure of labor at the very moment when it was most needed and the Yankees were obliged to compensate for this lack by the most rational and scientific kind of organized production.

When the war ended and was followed by a crisis of adjustment to new conditions, the United States appeared on the world scene. It had a powerful industry, and during the war it had consolidated itself in Canada and Latin America. It had paid over to Europe $20,000,000,000 to pay our war debts with, and thus put Europe in a bad debt.

Furthermore, the output of many American industries is much greater today than the output of the country since 1920.

Given this difference in output, American economy then appropriates to itself in its exchanges with other nations the values those other nations create. We provide America with merchandise into whose manufacture a certain amount of work has gone. Insofar as this merchandise is not being paid for to our debt but is exchanged with American merchandise, we receive in return products representing lower work, because of the superior productivity of Yankee economy. This has helped to increase the national income of the United States. We must not forget to include also the activities of certain American monopolies, for Europe needs certain raw materials for which she must pay tribute to America.

The formidable growth of America's national income is therefore not only explained by the religious development and success of American industry but also more by the fact that a portion of the labor of Europe, South America and Asia is drawn through the trans-Atlantic Republic. Thus, the whole world conspires to feed the sources of American wealth.

ST. LOUIS POLICE RADIO EXPECTED BEFORE APRIL 15

Permit Sought for 500-Watt Transmitter, Operating on Frequency of 2416 Kilocycles.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—St. Louis will soon have a police department radio transmitter, broadcasting two or five hours daily from Headquarters to 50 receiver-equipped automobiles crisscrossing about the city in addition to the present stations.

Chief of Police Gerke and Kenneth R. Cox, radio expert who installed the Detroit and Chicago police radio systems, said yesterday when attending a hearing before the Federal Radio Commission that equipment for St. Louis has been purchased for use before April 15. Louis O. Hocker, president of the Board of Police Commissioners, has filed with the Commission an application for a construction permit to allow the city to install a 500-watt transmitter operating on a frequency of 2416 kilocycles. As yet, the application has not been approved by the Commission.

To Buy From R. C. A.

The application stated that the transmitter would cost approximately $22,000. Gerke said the equipment would be bought from the Radio Corporation of America, the Western Electric Co. and the Graybar Co. When Cox testified before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, he charged that the Radio Corporation was demanding monopoly prices for police radio equipment and asserted that a suitable transmitter could be built for less than $10,000 if the Radio Corporation would allow the use of its patents. Neither he nor Gerke would say how much the entire equipment for St. Louis would cost.

The hearing before the Commission yesterday was not on the St. Louis application for a construction permit. Gerke, as chairman of the radio committee of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, appeared with representatives from the police departments of Detroit, Chicago, Indianapolis and St. Paul to urge the Commission to formulate a definite policy regarding police broadcasting.

Cox presented the technical side of the case, arguing that the Commission should stipulate its licensees the use of modern transmitters which would not fluctuate on power settings. He also urged the Commission to call on the Association of Chiefs of Police for surveys and recommendations covering the crime conditions in individual cities.

Offers Help of Association.

Gerk formally offered the help of his association for determining whether police broadcasting was necessary in certain cities particularly the smaller cities.

Cox said at least three cities would apply to the commission for police wave lengths and predicted that unless the commission laid down definite regulations for power and frequency there would be more congestion on police channels than there was now in commercial broadcasting.

"If you do not get the situation under control now," Cox declared, "you will find yourself in an avalanche later on. Not perhaps in three or four months, but certainly within a year."

He said that seven cities should have 500 watts power. That eight should have 300 watts. That a good many should have 200 watts and that the remaining cities should have from 50 watts to 150 watts of power, depending on their population and area. He said the St. Louis system would serve about 30 suburban towns and that the Chicago system would give coverage to about 50 surrounding communities.

Explains Need of System.

Gerk presented the arguments for the need of police radio. "Time is the essence of the whole matter," he said. "Often a few seconds will spell the difference between apprehension and escape. I do not see how in the future a progressive police force will be able to get along without a radio system."

He's building his bones

—and he needs special help

THE time to help your baby build good bones and teeth is during the first months and years of life," physicians are telling mothers.

"He must have special protection—even though he is breastfed he needs it. Otherwise he may not have the finely-shaped head you want him to have, the full chest, straight legs, and sound, uncrowded teeth that will not decay easily."

Nature provides this protection—Vitamin D—in two ways. Direct sunshine would keep your baby safe, if he could get enough of it on his bare body. But this is not possible on account of clothing, clouds, fog and smoke. Even ordinary window glass filters out the rays that protect.

The use of Bottled Sunshine—good cod-liver oil—then, is urged as the sure protection.

The country's leading specialists advise the use of Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil. They prefer it because they know they can depend on its high vitamin content.

Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil is very rich in Vitamin D, the "sunshine vitamin" which helps to build good bones and teeth, and also in Vitamin A which promotes normal growth and increases resistance to infections.

When you choose Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil, you are using a vitamin-enriched, vitamin-protected oil. Be sure to insist on Squibb's. At all reliable drug stores. Plain and Mint-flavored.

DRY RAID ON HOTEL; PADLOCK THREATENED

13 Employees of the Manger New York Arrested and Liquor Seized.

By LEONARD WIRE From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—In the first wholesale prohibition raid on a white night hostelry, 25 dry agents augmented by a staff of United States Marshals, descended last night on the Hotel Manger, Seventh Avenue and Fifth street, arrested 12 employees and seized a small quantity of liquor.

Prohibition Administrator Maurice Campbell announced that he would ask the Federal Court to padlock the 20-story hotel if 1750 rooms from top to bottom. He charged that the management had been aware for months of the violations of law. The raid yesterday was made after four weeks of undercover work in the hotel by 25 picked agents of the local dry unit, posing as guests.

At 3 p.m. the agents started breaking up. A half dozen men walked into the busy grill, arrested three waiters, but missed the head waiter. Several other agents seized two alleged bootleggers in the act of selling their wares in two rooms of the hotel. The Marshals arrested six bellhops.

Campbell said his agents had been planted in the hotel since New Year's and from day to day changed rooms to investigate conditions in all parts of the hotel. "My agents disclosed frightening conditions," Major Campbell said. "Even in more ways than selling liquor."

Two of the 12 persons arrested were taken to a police station where they were booked by Federal agents on charges of sale and possession. The others were all taken to the Federal detention prison, where Campbell said he would question them.

No official explanation was forthcoming from the hotel management, and employees got orders to say nothing.

The Hotel Manger was constructed for a sum of $1,000,000. It was opened in 1924. Among its permanent guests are many theatrical personages and it caters to a large transient clientele.

SAYS DECAY OF PIRACY ENDED
NECESSITY OF LARGE NAVIES

Washington U. Historian Describes Days When Nations Had to Defend Trading Ships.

Navies originated 200 years ago in an effort to protect shipping from bands of pirates which roved the seas, sometimes with large fleets such as that of Henry Morgan, who had 27 ships, said Roland G. Usher of Washington University, noted historian, told the Junior League yesterday in a lecture on "Pirates and Piracy."

Until recent years, he said, navies were built only for such defense, and then Germany built warships with no pirates in German waters and thus opened the question of naval parity. In the decay of piracy large navies are not necessary and reduction is possible, he asserted, and although the seas still must be policed, that need not be the task of England alone.

PIERCE-ARROW fineness appeals to certain people who put that rare quality ahead of all else in a motor car. Price rarely affects their preference.

Thus, the Pierce-Arrow sort of people are in no single income bracket. They meet on the common ground of devotion to things that are fine. And for these people, Pierce-Arrows are especially created.

From the lowest priced car of the three new Pierce-Arrow groups, to the most expensive custom creation in the line, this basic appeal is present. It expresses itself in beautifully designed and tailored interiors—in colorings that are lovely in their harmonies—in every inch of the low-slung, slender gracefulness that is Pierce-Arrow.

It seems superfluous to mention that these new cars are equally ultra-modern in mechanical detail. A recent development is the new transmission which permits silent gear-shifting at any speed—with an intermediate capable of 60 miles an hour, without hum or vibration. Magical in traffic! In every phase of performance, Pierce-Arrow at its finest!

were distributing agencies for the alcohol produced by the moonshiners.

The Government had hoped to use Tarro, who was indicted with the others, as a witness against the corporations, but he has disappeared. He made bond under the indictment Jan. 29 and two days later his automobile, bullet-riddled and burned, was found in a ditch near Mason City, about 50 miles north of Springfield. There were whispers among the moonshiners that Tarro had been slain, but District Attorney Provine discounts this report and is inclined to think Tarro has only run away.

Three of the defendants arraigned yesterday were Angelo, Frank and John Cordena, who have a trucking business at Benld. Last year Angelo, at a highway grade crossing, hit a Big Four Railroad locomotive with his truck, knocking the locomotive off the track and killing the engineer, K. Bushus. In a suit for damages to the locomotive and right of way agent of the trucking company, the railroad got a verdict of $10,500 in Federal Court, and the family of Bushus won a verdict of $35,000 for his death in the State court.

Main offices of the Corn Products and Fleischmann companies, which have plants throughout the country, are in New York. Officials of both companies, when informed of the indictments, said they had always used the utmost care in having their agents comply with the law.

The Fleischmann company, nucleus of the recently organized Standard Yeast Co. Inc., has St. Louis district offices at 4141 Forest Park Boulevard.

The Corn Products company is said to manufacture 75 per cent of the corn syrup (glucose) made in this country. Its St. Louis district offices are at 320 North Fourth street.

The sugar used by Illinois moonshiners was shipped from the Corn Products company refineries at Peoria and St. Louis according to District Attorney Provine, and the yeast from the Fleischmann company's St. Louis plant.

9 out of 10 Screen Stars use Lux Toilet Soap

It has swept across the world from Hollywood to Europe

"No beauty is more important to a girl than alluring smooth skin," says William A. Seiter, prominent First National director, summing up what 45 leading Hollywood directors have found out from their experience with motion pictures.

"A screen star must pass the most merciless test—the great close-up lights find out the slightest flaw in the skin," he goes on to say. "But the owner of a skin which can pass this test has the support of an immense adoring public."

It is because alluringly smooth skin is so vital for success on the screen that of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 511 are simply devoted to Lux Toilet Soap. And all the great film studios have made it the official soap for their dressing rooms.

The Broadway stage stars are equally enthusiastic about this soap, so daintily fragrant and white. And now, too, the screen stars of the European capitals have adopted Lux Toilet Soap! To keep their skin faultlessly smooth as the American stars keep theirs.

You will love the way it keeps your skin silken-smooth! And such generous lather as it gives, even in very hard water. Order several cakes of Lux Toilet Soap—today.

FOURTH ROBBER IS FOUND IN HERCULANEUM, MO., MURDER
Police Captain Kirk Says Youth in State Reformatory Has Admitted Crime.

The fourth person involved in the holdup murder a year ago of Virgil Romine, proprietor of a restaurant at Herculaneum, Mo., is Joseph J. Muehleman, 18 years old, formerly of 1902 Allen avenue, and now serving a term in Booneville penitentiary. Police Captain Kirk of the Sheriff's Station said today
Capt. Kirk's interest in the case led to the arrest of two men and a girl, about 19 days ago, whose confessions exonerated Walter Hess and Alvin Craig, a pair of youths who were convicted of the crime on circumstantial evidence and sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary.

Information that reached Capt.
Kirk caused him to go to Booneville, Sunday to see Muehle-man. The latter readily admitted his part in the holdup. Capt. Kirk said: When Muehleman's time is up at Booneville, in a few months, he will be held for the Sheriff of Jefferson County. The others, now held at Hillsboro, Mo., where they will be arraigned on murder charges, are Louis Taylor, an 18-year-old boy, who admits shooting Romine when the latter resisted the holdup; Gilford
Brown, a 21-year-old ex-soldier arrested in Illinois following Taylor's confession; Mamie Woolden, a young woman who donned men's clothes, she confessed, and took part in the holdup.

Gov. Caulfield had directed the State Penal Board to investigate the cases of Hess and Craig, looking to their release from the conviction which the confessions of Taylor and his confederates disclosed, was unjust.

STATE TO OPPOSE SANITY TEST FOR WOMAN POISONER

Franklin County Prosecutor Says County Court Has
No Right to Order Mrs.
Bertha Gifford's Release.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNION, Mo., Feb. 11.—Any sanitary hearing for Mrs. Bertha Gifford, Franklin County prisoner now in the State Insane Hospital at Farmington, Mo., where she is listed as an incurable paranoid of murderous tendencies, will be opposed, Franklin Attorney Attorney A. Tibbe of Franklin County.

Steps were recently taken by Gene Gifford, the poisoner's husband, and W. L. Cole, Franklin County attorney, to have Mrs. Gifford removed from the hospital for three days so she might be examined in St. Louis by alienists on the possible assumption that she is
"no longer insane."

Unknown Tibbe, Gifford and Cole obtained an order from Franklin County Court authorizing a three days' leave from the institution for Mrs. Gifford, Tibbe said.

When he heard of the order, he communicated with the State Hospital at Farmington and told them not to honor it, because the County Court, an administrative body, had no authority in the case, the poisoner being committed on order of the Circuit Court. A jury found she had killed a man by giving him arsenic but was insane at the time of the act and still suffered, at the time of her trial, from insanity.

Gave Poison to Two Boys.

"I would oppose any attempt to liberate Mrs. Gifford, on the cause of general humanity," Tibbe said.
"Mrs. Gifford confessed she gave poison to Ed Brinley, for which she was tried and confessed also giving poison to two little boys.
In each case, chemical analysis showed arsenic was the cause of death.
In addition, there were from 10 to 12 other deaths, in which Mrs. Gifford's ministrations as 'nurse' was under suspicion.

"Alienists took the stand at the time of Mrs. Gifford's trial to state their belief that she suffered from paranoia, an incurable mental disease.

A jury of 12 men, finding she had killed Brinley, ordered she be sent to an asylum because she was hopelessly insane. I certainly would wish to be party to any attempt to release Mrs. Gifford.
Her condition, I understand, has not undergone any change at Farmington. There has been no reason to change her classification as an incurable paranoid or murderous tendencies.

"In my opinion, it would be better for the community at large, if Mrs. Gifford continues to be confined."

Served as Volunteer Nurse.

Mrs. Gifford was sentenced to be imprisoned by the jury trying her for murder on Nov. 21, 1928, in Union.
She was sent to Farmington on Dec. 18, 1928. Investigation of several sudden deaths in and about Catalissia disclosed that Mrs. Gifford had been a volunteer nurse for the patients before their demise. Mrs. Gifford's interest in the sick and their aid in laying out the dead in the poor farming community in which she resided earned her the name of the Good Samaritan.
Doctors who examined her said she admitted giving poison to certain victims, saying, "But I wanted to do them good."

Her husband was convicted of harboring a still and several thousand gallons of msh in 1927, when he was a tenant on the Frye farm near Catalissia. At the time of the trial, Gifford said he made his living by farming.

CARNERA TO OUTWEIGH MARTIN 60 POUNDS IN HIS BOUT HERE TONIGHT

ITALIAN GIANT SHOWS SPEED IN FINAL WORKOUT; THRILLS CROWD WITH HIS AGILITY

By John E. Wray

Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Primo Carnera may be just what his name seems to indicate—a prime piece of meat—to some, but there will be a number of qualified critics at the giant Italian's Arena appearance tonight who believe that the "map mountain" eventually will become a world champion.

"Map mountain" is right. When the big European stepped on the scales at the City Boxing Commission's office this afternoon, after taking off coat, hat and shirt, he weighed 211½ pounds. Probably in fighting togs he will be close to 270 pounds, his ring weight in previous bouts. Buster Martin, also with shoes and trousers on, tipped the scales at 209½ pounds, but his apparel is not so large, and, of course, not so heavy as Carnera's. Thus they are 60 pounds apart.

Several doubting Thomases have been converted since Carnera's appearance in local gymnasiums, where his workouts for his bout with Buster Martin have thrilled hundreds. And after yesterday's display, during which he shadowboxed with Fred Cullen, a light-heavyweight, all the onlookers were convinced that if Buster Martin can beat the human mountain tonight he will be the world's greatest survivor.

Carnera Shows Speed.

Carnera again displayed his amazing size and his still more astounding agility of movement in three rounds of shadow sparring with his lighter foe. It is no exaggeration to say that he outstepped Cullen and outspeeded him in every way. He strategically boxed him in corners, scored his first dozen hypothetical knockouts of his foe. Once he feinted so rapidly and skillfully that Cullen tumbled his own legs and fell to the floor in confusion. Some said it was from the wind of Carnera's blow.

Carnera showed more than speed and footwork. He gave evidence of a considerable degree of scientific boxing knowledge. His police is good. He leads accurately with left and finds openings with his right. He knew where to hit about. His timing and accuracy of punch were shown frequently by the way he MISSED his foe. For any one of the punches he launched would have wrecked his vis-a-vis had it landed.

Carnera showed that he can use the shift and if he can carry his trickery stuff into the ring with

Martin's Manager, Amazed at Carnera's Size, Says Buster Will Not Be Scared.

In the crowd was one little-known party. His name was "Chick" Rains who is here with Anderson Allen (Buster) Martin. Chick stood in eye-popped amazement as he saw the big fellow do his stuff. He was gazing an eye-fuful for the benefit of Martin. We dare say that Buster got an unpleasing earful shortly afterwards.

In fact, Buster will hardly be feeling confident of the finish tonight, when he will send his near 210 pounds or thereabouts of fighting weight against the 270 odd pounds of Carnera. Buster, a sizable man himself with his 6 feet and altitude and a well-proportioned figure, is just as well-matched as the Italian. Their measurements show elsewhere, indicate hopeless physical inferiority.

Martin Game, Says Handler.

Buster himself put in a stout workout yesterday, and showed improved condition. He had too short a time to train. Rains told the writer that Buster would be better if he had a week more.

"But he's the strongest fellow you ever saw," Rains declared. "They ain't going to scare Buster with size, although that steamroller he's going to meet may run over him. Buster is the greatest man I ever saw and he can hit. If he gets over one on Carnera he might do something serious. He's too game. He don't know when to quit and that may get him hurt."

St. Louis fans are not expecting Buster to be much more than a couple of rounds if that long. The big fellow has worked out too convincingly. But there are many who think that Buster's experience, hitting power and gameness will enable him to go several rounds.

The fight will be the fourth American appearance of Carnera, the other three having been against Big Boy Petersen at New York, Elmer Rixius at Chicago and Cowby Owens at Newark. The longest of these was the Owens fight, which lasted over four minutes. The shortest was the Rixius fight in which Rixius nosedived off the ring. Total total earnings thus far have been approximately $35,000. In the last three months, counting his two European appearances, he has netted him a bank account of his own of about $40,000 to all.

After observing Carnera's work-out and one of his fights, and considering the great crowd expected to stay 11 rounds in two fights with Strubing, this writer finds it hard to believe that Carnera is a "complete novice in the science of fighting" as one European critic expressed it.

ALTON BOY-GIANT, A LITTLE TALLER, MEETS CARNERA

PRIMO CARNERA, the Italian heavyweight, and Robert Wadlow, 11-year-old Alton giant, shook hands yesterday at the Lennox Hotel and compared measurements.

Both boys looked up at the Alton schoolboy in surprise and chattered with him for several minutes.

Robert is 7 feet tall and weighs 250 pounds. Carnera is only 6 feet 7 1/2 inches tall, and the scale at about 270. Robert's size 24 shoe made the fighter's size 17 foot appear almost dainty. The wrist and hand span of almost the same height and reach the same height.

Robert was brought to the hotel by his father and news paper men. He met Carnera in the hotel lobby and accompanied the fighter to his suite where the comparisons were made.

One of the Carnera stable fighters will also be engaged. He is James Bruder, 18, of Newark, the little boy fellow on the Chris Stadium card and he fought an eye-popping 10-round bout with King Levinsky.

WIDOW LOSES IN COURT ACTION

TO COLLECT ACCIDENT POLICY
$3605 Judgment in Favor of Mrs.
J. P. Gorman Reversed
WhenAppealed.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today reversed a judgment of $3605 in favor of Mrs. Leonora Gorman, widow of J. P. Gorman, who was head of the milk department in the Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co., St. Louis, on April 15, 1927, as the result of burns suffered in his room in the Missouri Hotel when the bed clothing was set on fire by his cigarette.

Gorman fell on the steps of his home Feb. 1, 1927, fracturing his left leg and dislocating the ankle. In the latter part of March he took the hotel room in order to be near his place of business. After the accident he sought the renewal of an insurance policy of the Fidelity & Casualty Co. of New York, declaring that he was in sound mental and physical condition, with the exception of the leg injury.

The company refused to renew the policy, but paid $550 in accident insurance.

After his death, Mrs. Gorman brought suit to collect the face value of the policy, $7500 with interest. Federal Judge Davis in instructing the jury said: "The words 'sound condition mentally and physically' do not mean mere temporary indisposition, ailment or injury, but these words include the absence of disease in the constitution and of any mental or physical disease or injury of a serious nature that may have a direct tendency to shorten life."

The opinion of the Appellate Court delivered by Judge Van Valkenburgh, held the charge in error on the ground that it excluded the admitted condition of Gorman's leg. The case was remanded for new trial. Mrs. Gorman resides at 3216A Greer avenue.

Former Actress Assists in Trying to Save Animals; Origin of Fire Investigated.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Ninety dogs were burned to death early today in a fire which destroyed Irene Castle McLaughlin's refuge for stray dogs at Deedfield, a suburb. Cities of the animals awakened nearby residents. Firemen lacked water with which to fight the flames.

Telephones in the kennels, known as "Orphans of the Storm" and at the McLaughlin home in suburban Lake Forest were out of commission, and police said the possibility of arson was under investigation. They said the fire started simultaneously in all the kennels.

Mrs. McLaughlin actively engaged in fighting the fire. An inadequate water supply made all efforts useless. It was only after 25 dogs had been rescued and cared for that Mrs. McLaughlin returned to her home in tears.

She called off a trip to Florida tomorrow with her husband, Maj. Frederick McLaughlin, wealthy sportsman, and her children. Although most of the dogs that perished were redheads, a number were thoroughbreds left in the quarters for the winter by their owners.

Meet Mr. Carnera, the Italian Giant Who Hopes to Be the Heavyweight Champion of the World

The Big Man of the Ring Who Would Make Willard Seem Almost Undersized

Planted Firmly on a Pair of Feet Supported by Ankles Six Inches Thick This 23-Year-Old Colossus Is Stepping Along to Fame

By Thomas Dawson.

INTO the glare of sport's spotlight now steps the 23-year-old Italian giant, Primo Carnera, who sits on chairs only to have them crash beneath him, who sleeps, because of his great bulk and length, in two ordinary beds.

The calcium rays focus insistently on Carnera, who appears in St. Louis tonight to meet—his trainers say to floor—an Oklahoma heavyweight. Big men heretofore have striven for honors in the prize ring. But not even the gigantic Jess Willard, whom the agile Dempsey labored so mercilessly, could show the great shoulder bunches of muscles, the mighty forearms almost half-a-foot thick, the huge Paleolithic hands that astonish observers of Carnera.

Carnera, on the basis of size alone, is phenomenal. He is doubly so, because unlike most giants his frame is covered with rippling interwoven layers of truly astonishing muscle. Grinning in the prize ring, his lips skinned back from white teeth, Carnera looms in his fighting toga like some colossus of the Pleistocene, joyful in battle. He shocks the sight. If one doubts that Homo Neanderthalensis, in the days of his primitive glory, actually fought the hairy Mammoth elephant and the sabre-tooth tiger, one look at Primo Carnera dispels that skepticism.

In repose, stretched out on the It was an excellent choice of a rubber tubing while two trainers pound and knead him, he looks like the giants left by Michelangelo on the Sistine Chapel ceiling in the Vatican. The muscles, as in Michelangelo's figures, roll like marbles under the flesh. The body reveals no fat. The big frame is supported on a pair of tremendous legs, grounded in genuine giant's feet six inches thick at the ankles. All save the face. Carnera, with his broken nose, his heavy, bony jaw, his big cheek bones, does not have a heroic countenance. It might be called, instead, Philistine.

HIS powerful youth who celebrated his twenty-third birthday in London three months ago by punching into unconsciousness an English opponent in the ring, is now seen as a possible successor to the pugilistic crown of Gene Tunney. When he achieved the social register, for a sum of $5,000,000, and speaking acquaintance with George Bernard Shaw, renounced his boxing gloves forever.

Carnera wants to be champion. He wants to make a million or more dollars. He wants money, and fame, and automobiles made to order. In the pursuit of these things, he is extremely happy. He enjoys his daily two hours of exercise, putting on an ordinary citizen might enjoy a round of golf. His felicity is the greatest, because, for the first time in his life, he is able to eat regularly and adequately.

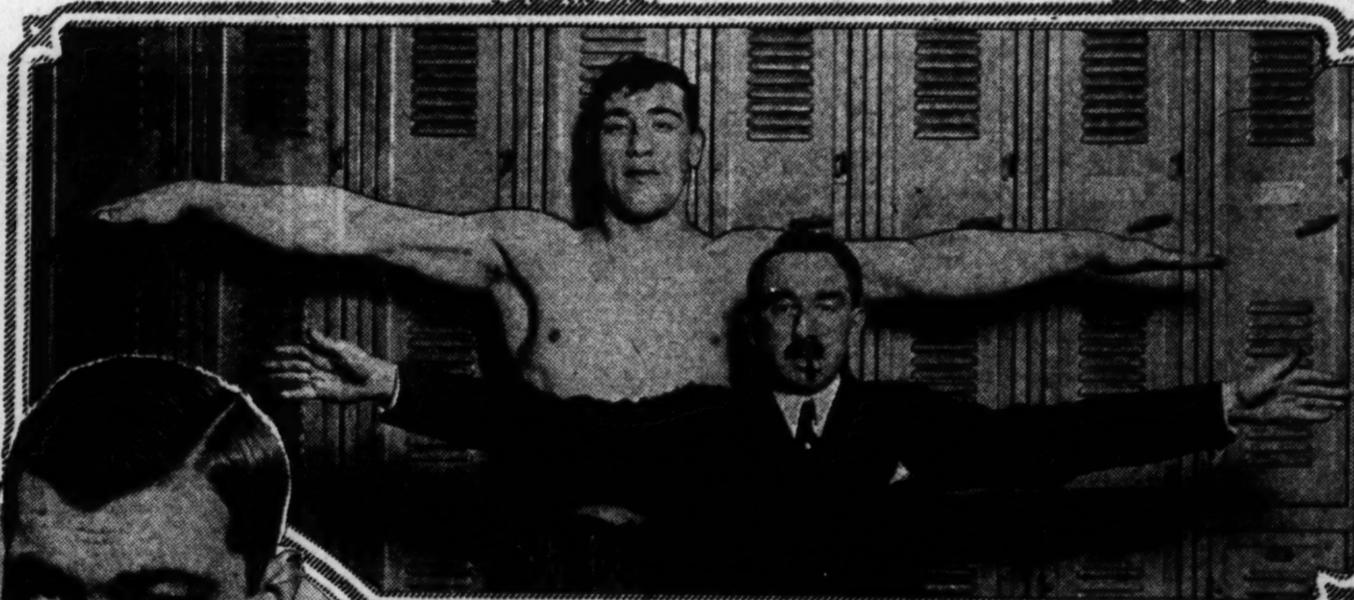

Carnera for a long while believed there wasn't any Santa Claus. In a world of five-footers and six-footers, it isn't much fun being giant, if one is poor. Carnera was born in poverty, and remained poor. He lived, in fact, wearing clothes that were too small and never getting enough to eat—until M. Leon See, French boxing promoter, discovered him 18 months ago and added him to his list of possibilities to box.

CARNERA's father was a mosaic worker living near Venice. There were five children. The father made less than a dollar a day. At the age of 14, Carnera, home, strong, and says, to find something to eat. He did not go to France. He worked in a cement factory, carrying stones and heavy sacks, continually guyed about his size. When he was 17 years old, he joined a carnival company as a wrestling "ham."

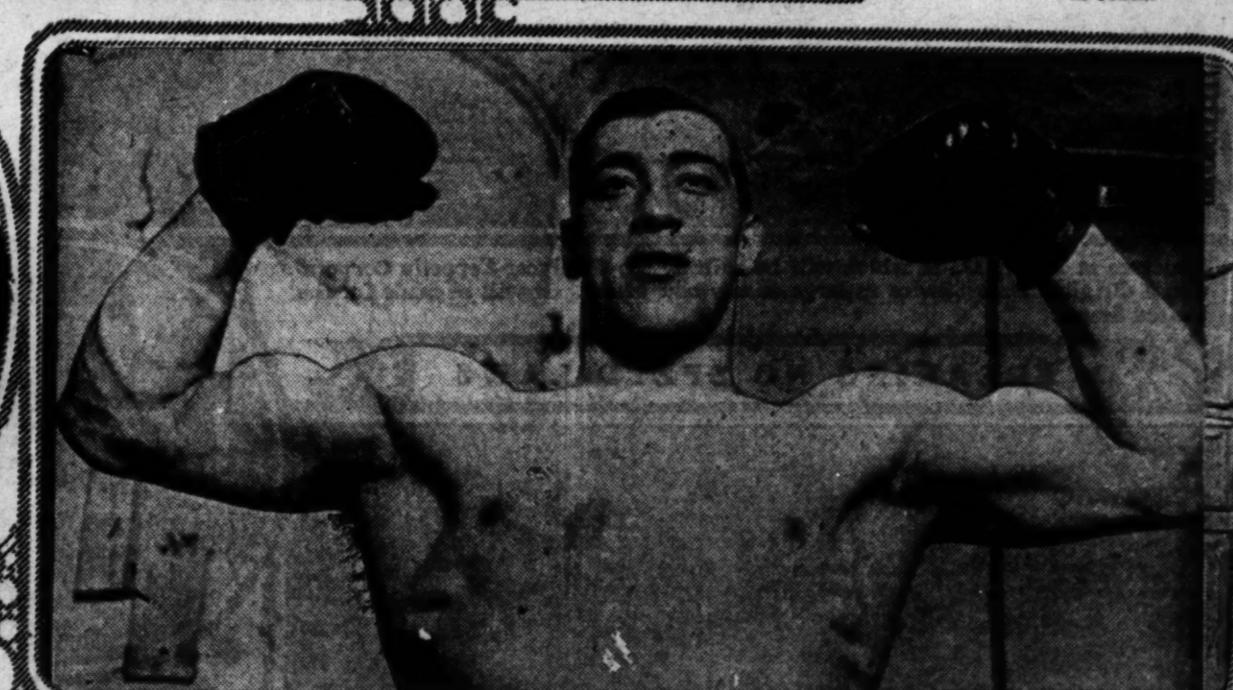

Every morning, when the carnival opened, the wrestlers put on show. They agreed to take all comers. Carnera wore a clown's outfit when business was good, and went through the clowning wrestling act. For three years, Carnera told this writer, he wrestled every day—an average of 12 to 15 bouts. That would have given him a background, by the age of 20, of at least 10,000 wrestling bouts! It seems incredible, but Carnera insists it is true.

He liked the carnival work—the crowds, the wrestling, the clowning, the competition—very much. But it had one drawback. He didn't eat well. He ate little, and he stayed with the carnival, although it always felt hungry, until it went broke. Then he worked as a laborer, still hungry, still without clothing to cover him. When M. See found Carnera, the latter had on a pair of trousers at least five sizes too small. They reached a little below the fighter's knees and had been slit to afford comfort. He had swathed in something that approached a suit, and his great feet were encased in house-slippers of carpet material. When See saw the youth's possibilities, he gave him some money and said, "Have some taller build you a suit."

See did not say "have a tailor make you a suit." He said "build."

Sledge-hammer hands of the Italian fighter.

A torso and a pair of biceps that are envied by every instructor in physical development.

AT the left is seen the exact size of Primo Carnera's right hand, photographed by a Post-Dispatch staff photographer. From thumb tip to the end of the little finger is 11 inches. The average man's hand, opened in a position similar to the one in the picture, is about eight inches, frequently less. It is an easy matter for the reader to place his own hand over this illustration and make a comparison.

cup of black coffee. He then embarks on an hour's road work. He attacks his first meal after the road work, when he is hungry as a wolf. M. See declares that Carnera, when he ate his first meal at the boxer's camp, pulled strips of meat from the bone with his hands, and, according knife and fork, crammed them in his mouth. In 16 months, he has learned not only the rudiments of boxing, but the basic technique of using knife and fork. After his appearance in London, when he knocked out Jack Stanley, he was the guest at a party given by the Prince of Wales, according to See, and on that occasion, his great hands in-the board, he has made an inadvertent movement and the chair has gone crashing.

Ordinary chairs will support him, but will not allow him to take liberties. If he relaxes in a sitting room chair, and tilts it back, it is almost invariably broken. Crash! The chair is more.

"Oof!" Carnera said to this reporter, speaking of chairs, and shaking his head. "I'm afraid I break many." Carnera has not yet mastered English. He speaks both French and Italian.

Sleeping cars, Carnera admits, are not a source of joy to him.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11. THE man of a thousand voices now has his chance to become the man of a thousand voices, for it is possible that Lon Chaney, in his new five-year contract, will need to acquire a new mode of speech to fit each make-up, providing he continues to evolve the varied characteristics of his characters for which he is known.

Becoming an articulate star seems probably as big a developmental job for Chaney as it has meant for any other actors making the switch from the silent to the audible screen.

The ingenue can always be her self, and there are characters men and women who almost invariably may use their established technique.

But Chaney has transformed himself so often in every way except his language that now he would seem to be due to become the human Tower of Babel.

ARINO POMARES, father of Anita, has gone to some trouble to determine exactly how much more it costs a girl to live if she is in the movies than otherwise.

Formerly an engineer, Pomares likes charts, graphs, and blue prints, and in his capacity as Anita's manager has contrived several which, in effect, put her career on a mathematical basis.

Along with charts showing how Anita's fan mail varies from month to month, box-office receipts on her various pictures, and so on, he has drawn one illustrating relatively increased expenditures of her every dollar because she is "in the movies."

Money, for answering fan mail, besides befitting her calling, a tinner home, and the like, cause her to spend, in every $1000, about $425, which in another profession might be saved.

In other words, he found, outside the movies she would spend about 53 per cent of her salary, leaving some 46 per cent, which now goes to "movie expenses."

RECENTLY M. See has taken a drawing room for the giant and things are slightly easier in a Kansas City bandstand. The great feet stick out of the berth but are now propped up on suitcases atop which pillows have been piled. At hotels, when Carnera has to sleep in two-man compartment places two beds together—one lengthwise and one crosswise—and Carnera is then able to stretch his length.

Many doorways have been built without taking such fellow as Carnera into consideration. He gets cautious now. He has bumped his head on so many times! Almost the only giant he admires is the fact that he cannot drive an automobile. He tried to learn to drive, and there is not one car with a driver's seat large enough to accommodate him. When he becomes a millionaire, he says, he will have a car built that fits his plenty of room.

Carnera is simple in his tastes. He likes to "joke" with the girls. He likes to play pranks on his trainers. He is extremely fond of his dozen made-to-order suits; his made-to-order shirt, his made-to-order underwear, his made-to-order socks. He is a marked target for cartoonists and spends one purpose—he wants to be champion of the world and to collect the million or more that the little holder always comes into.

If Carnera fails in his reach for the heavyweight title, however, he need not worry about a livelihood. He could always get on in the movies as an enlargement of Bull Montana.

ANITA PAGE

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11. — This man of a thousand faces now has his chance to become the man of a thousand voices, and it is possible that Lon Chaney, shuffling his new five-year talkie contract, will need no more words of speech than the 110 words he has in each chapter of his present contract, to prove the varied characterizations which he is able to make.

Becoming an articulate star means probably a big developmental job for Chaney as he has done in any other actors making the switch to the screen to the audible stage.

T HE town seems to have broken out with an Alberta Rasch, that impresario of the light fantastic having ballets in three special features simultaneously enjoying long runs in local theaters. — "The Royal Song" at the Chinese, "Devil May Care" at the Egyptian Circle, and "Sally" at Warners' Hollywood Theater. Other producers are constantly striving to imitate this lady's particular "Raschness" without avail.

"BRIDE 66," which, by the way, is another appropriate Hollywood title, an Arthur Hammerstein creation for United Artists, has gone into production. Lois Moran, one of the sweetest girls in this township, plays the lead. Dorothy Dalton comes back to the screen for an important role, while the sterner sex is represented by Josephine McCauley and Joe E. Brown.

"GEORGE O'BRIEN, one of the greatest athletes of the film colony, has become also one of its most ambitious sky boys. It is not generally known that he is an experienced flier, with more than 1500 hours to his credit. Incidentally, it was his directors who were mistaken.

He can sit in Pullmans without discomfort, but the average Pullman berth, for him, is as commanding as a No. 12 shoe would be on his size 17 foot. He has to coil himself up like a snake, Carnera said, to this writer, and then he becomes cramped. When he can stand in no longer, he puts his feet out into the aisle where, alas, passengers and trainmen run into them.

R ECENTLY Mr. See has taken a drawing room for the duration and things are slightly easier. The only grief he admits is the fact that he cannot drive an automobile. He has tried all models, he declares, and there is not one with a driver's seat large enough to accommodate him. They replied it's courageous, it's courageous, as my conscientious director said, sight unseen. The lad remained in Kansas City.

But not long as he was able to remind DeMille of the fact that he was now a boy of 24, he was sure that the two directors were mistaken.

Not that Stanley Smith disregarded their advice. He came to Hollywood only because his family moved. But being in the movie atmosphere, a student at Hollywood high school, with theatrical ambitions to boot, it was inevitable that his desire for a stellar career should be whetted.

IRON MAN

A New Champion Is Made and Coke Mason Is the Proud Possessor of a World's Title

Coke leapt in, sent a left hook to the body and followed up with a solid right to the jaw. Mike went down.

CHAPTER 20.

THE bell rang. Coke shuffled into the center of the ring, carrying his right low. Mike circled around him, trying to draw Coke with his left, missed and took a solid, light right punch. He clinched. The referee broke them, and Mike stopped Coke slowly, feinted, then rushed Coke, beating him about the body. Coke landed a light left and clinched. Mike repeated his former tactics, landing three blows to Coke's one. Mike's blows were light and Coke hardly felt them, but Mike was taking no chances and pulling up points. Coke, hampered by favoritism of his right, fought awkwardly and frequently clinched. The crowd didn't like it, and shouted for Mike to straighten him up. Before the first round was over, the crowd was won for Mike. But Coke grinned. When the bell rang Coke shuffled to his corner.

"It's O.K." said McNeil. "I seen him straighten your right." "Yeah," said Mike, "but I can't keep it up. I don't want to hit hard with my left when I'm stalling with my right." "All right," said McNeil. "Don't talk."

"Better watch that mit," said Mike, smiling.

Coke said nothing, but fell into a clinch. The referee separated them. Mike backed toward the ropes on his toes, watching for an opening. Coke led with his left and Mike bounded off the ropes, landing a hard left to the body, followed by a right to the head. Coke fell into a clinch and the crowd cheered. When the bell rang, Coke shuffled to his corner shaking his head.

"Bring on the Iron Man," somebody shouted.

Pieces of newspaper began to sail down from the gallery. Mike sat in his corner, nodding, while his brother talked to him.

The radio-man, a fight expert, was telling his audience that it looked very much as if the Ohio Iron Man was going to get a good lacing.

Mandi, who was sitting with Riley and Regan, said: "I bet there are two rounds for Mike."

"That ain't nothing," said Riley. "When he fought Prince Pearl he lost the first five rounds."

Coke wasn't even winded and sat leaning on the ropes with his legs crossed.

"He can't hit worth a damn," said Coke. "I can't even feel that left."

"No," said McNeil, "and he's getting careless."

The third, fourth and fifth rounds were duplicates of the first two, except that round five was faster and more even. Coke wasn't taking the punches, but he was landing, in spite of stalling with his right, at the end of the fifth Mike looked worried. The crowd was quiet, and even a flurry of infighting in the middle of the fifth round failed to rouse them.

They had come to see Mason, the heavy puncher, upset Mike, whom they had never seen in this case.

As far as the crowd was concerned, this was just another Mike Shay circus; another waltz-me-around-again bout with Mike Shay getting the decision at the end of the fight. When the bell rang for the sixth round, somebody yelled: "Well, go into your dance!"

There was a prolonged jeering.

THE radio-man informed his listeners that the crowd was kidding the fighters and that this was probably the worst championship fight he had ever seen.

"Mason," he said, "isn't he a good fighter?"

"He isn't nothing," said Riley. "When he fought Prince Pearl he lost the first five rounds."

The crowd was quiet, and even a flurry of infighting in the middle of the fifth round failed to rouse them.

They had come to see Mason, the heavy puncher, upset Mike, whom they had never seen in this case.

As far as the crowd was concerned, this was just another Mike Shay circus; another waltz-me-around-again bout with Mike Shay getting the decision at the end of the fight. When the bell rang for the sixth round, somebody yelled: "Well, go into your dance!"

There was a prolonged jeering.

THE radio-man informed his listeners that the crowd was kidding the fighters and that this was probably the worst championship fight he had ever seen.

"Mason," he said, "isn't he a good fighter?"

"He isn't nothing," said Riley. "When he fought Prince Pearl he lost the first five rounds."

Coke wasn't even winded and sat leaning on the ropes with his legs crossed.

"He can't hit worth a damn," said Coke. "I can't even feel that left."

"No," said McNeil, "and he's getting careless."

The third, fourth and fifth rounds were duplicates of the first two, except that round five was faster and more even. Coke wasn't taking the punches, but he was landing, in spite of stalling with his right, at the end of the fifth Mike looked worried. The crowd was quiet, and even a flurry of infighting in the middle of the fifth round failed to rouse them.

WIFE HEARD REPORT, DID NOT SEE SLAYER

Victim Had Often Said He Would Resist Robbery—Murderer Flees Empty-Handed.

David C. Kindig, 64-year-old proprietor of a small confectionery at 3154 1-2 Easton avenue, was shot and killed in his store soon after 1 a.m. today. Police think he resisted a holdup.

"I'm not just going to stand there and stick my hands up," Kindig told his wife several times in discussing the possibility of robbery. He kept a revolver on hand for such an emergency.

His last word to his wife as she sat over his dying form were: "Get it—get it."

Presumably he was urging her to get the revolver, which he was unable to reach. The murderer escaped unscathed by the wife or neighbors.

Kindig had bought the store with his savings three years ago. He had worked hard for his money and did not intend to surrender any of it. In resisting robbery, he saved $12 which he had in his cash register and his pockets.

Wife Heard Shot.

He and his wife, Elizabeth, 53, resided in the rear of their "hole-in-the-wall" shop. Along the east wall at the front is a showcase containing candies and tobacco. To the west is a passageway for customers. To the rear and extending crosswise is a partition with shelves holding a small stock of groceries. Behind the partition are bedroom and kitchen.

It was his husband's custom to rise by the alarm clock at 5:30 o'clock every morning and open the store. "Mrs. Kindig told reporters, "About 6 o'clock I heard the milk man making a delivery. After the milkman left, I was doing when I heard a short scuffle followed by a shot in the store."

"I jumped up and pulled back the curtain, screaming the alarm. I ran to the store. I saw my husband running from behind the candy counter toward the grocery shelf where he kept his revolver. He collapsed and fell on the floor at my feet."

"Get a doctor, quick!" he gasped. "Then he said, "Get it—get it." I became hysterical. I called for help and somebody summoned the police."

Cpl. William Tierney, on his way to the Tayton Street Police Station to board the day's work, saw a patrol wagon blocking up the store and a crowd of spectators milling around. He found Kindig unconscious and dying on the store floor. There was $7.10 in his pockets and $5 in change in the cash register, which had not been rifled.

Kindig was dead when received at City Hospital. He had been shot with a .38 caliber bullet which entered the right breast, emerged from the right side, and dropped from the clothing as he was being dressed.

Police Theory of Shooting.

Police found a dime on top of the cash register, and Kindig's revolver, which had not been fired, on the grocery shelf. Investigators concluded Kindig had been shot by a robber who posed as a customer and tendered the dime in payment for his purchase.

When the supposed customer drew a revolver and ordered him up, Kindig, it is believed, snatched it and moved toward the rear to get his own revolver. The customer was at the east side and Kindig was facing south which would account for his being shot in the right side.

A rumor was circulated that one or two men had been seen leaving the store, but a house-to-house canvass of the vicinity by police failed to disclose anyone who had witnessed the murderer's escape. Mrs. Kindig accepted the robbery theory. She said her husband had no enemies.

The bullet recovered from the body will be saved as evidence. In the event a suspect with a revolver is arrested, another bullet will be fired from the weapon, and the markings on the two bullets will be compared under the police microscope. A microscopic instrument will determine whether the bullet which killed the storekeeper was fired from the same weapon.
